

Pharmacy and Primary Care

All of healthcare is being disrupted by new technologies, these changes will be driven by patients and as yet unseen innovation that many of us cannot imagine. As practice managers and practice staff you are aware of the power of these changes within general practice, but what about the health professionals you deal with most frequently.

How will these changes reflect in the pharmacy services you see offered by pharmacies and pharmacists and their impact on your patients and practices?