

The perspective of a nurse/practice manager owned general practice as a different model of ownership and thinking about how general practice might look in the future

Three years ago, the GP for whom we worked for decided to close the doors of the practice in 28 days, citing burn out and personal reasons. After a great deal of consideration, the clinic was purchased by three Registered Nurses, one Enrolled Nurse and the Practice Manager. We took over private ownership 1st May 2015.
